

Jan Shipps, Professor Emerita

Indiana University–Purdue University, Indianapolis

7:00 pm, October 5, 2006

Education Auditorium, University of Wyoming

Light refreshments will be served following the lecture.

Jan Shipps, professor emerita of history and religious studies at Indiana University–Purdue University, Indianapolis, is recognized worldwide for her scholarship on Mormonism. Though she has never been a Mormon, Shipps describes herself as an “insider-outsider” to the faith, capturing her intimate knowledge of the religion and her academic relation to it. In addition to a host of articles and edited volumes, Shipps has published Mormonism: The Story of a New Religious Tradition (1985) and, more recently, Sojourner in the Promised Land: Forty Years among the Mormons (2000). She is currently the president of the American Society of Church History, the oldest organization of professional historians in the United States.

UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING

Sponsored by the University of Wyoming Religious Studies Program, with generous support by the Office of the President, the College of Arts and Sciences, the History Department, the American Studies Program, the LDS Student Association, the Laramie LDS Stake, and the Wyoming Humanities Council.

Lecture Series: The Latter-day Saints and Their World

Locating Mormonism on the American Religious Landscape